DEPARTMENT OF STATE

1. Defeat the Terrorists and Neutralize the Insurgents

Phase II of Operation Together Forward is continuing to show progress in Baghdad. The Iraqi-led campaign is designed to reduce violence in the capital, not only through security means but also by promoting economic incentives, civic action projects, and controlling illegal weapons.

2. Transition Iraq to Security Self-Reliance

On September 3, the 8th Iraqi Army Division will become the first Iraqi Division to operate independently .

3. Help Iraqis to Forge a National Compact for Democratic Government

Shia parties are split regarding the influence of Iran in Iraqi affairs. The Islamic Allegiance Party (political wing of cleric Mahmoud Abdul Ridha al-Hassani) and the Fadhila bloc directed recriminations at two of the largest Shia parties in parliament, the Supreme Council for the Islamic Revolution in Iraq and the Da'wa party. The pointed criticism followed a round of violent clashes this week in southern Iraq between rival Shia factions.

4. Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services

Two water treatment projects totaling nearly $1.5 million were recently completed in Salah ad Din Province. These US Army-funded projects included the installation of new water compact units capable of providing clean drinking water to about 50,000 people in the Tikrit area.

5. Help Iraq Strengthen Its Economy

The Iraqi Company for Bank Guarantees (ICBG) announced its establishment recently. Equipped with $3.5 million for start-up capital, the ICBG will guarantee bank loans to small and medium-sized enterprises.

6. Help Iraq Strengthen the Rule of Law

More than 950 new Iraqi recruits began a ten-week Basic Police Officer training course August 21. The new recruits are the result of one of Multi-National Forces - West most successful recruiting efforts this year.

7. Increase International Support for Iraq

The United Kingdom intends to cut the number of British soldiers in Iraq in half by mid-2007. The plan calls for the pullout to begin in early 2007 with the withdrawal of 1,000 of the 7,000-strong existing force, officials said August 22 in London. This is the most optimistic projection, they said, with the pace of withdrawal governed by the ability of Iraq's government to take control of regions currently under the control of British Forces.

8. Strengthen Public Understanding of Coalition Efforts and Public Isolation of the Insurgents

Addressing a press conference August 21, President Bush acknowledged that the Iraq war was "straining the psyche of our country," but made clear that withdrawing from Iraq would be a mistake and that it would not occur during his presidency.

Operation Together Forward Continues to Progress in Baghdad:

- Phase II of Operation Together Forward is continuing to show progress in Baghdad. The Iraqi-led campaign is designed to reduce violence in the capital, not only through security means but also by promoting economic incentives, civic action projects, and controlling illegal weapons.
 - This past week, Iraqi and Coalition Forces concentrated on four major Baghdad hot spots – mostly in the western part of the city – in an effort to reduce the number of murders, kidnappings, assassinations, and car bombs in those areas. Additionally, operations in the Doura neighborhood of southern Baghdad continued to build on the improved security established over the past two weeks.
 - In Ameriya – a key neighborhood in western Baghdad – more than 50 percent of the shops in the market were re-opened after Iraqi and Coalition Forces conducted operations there, according to Iraqi Army Brig. Gen. Abdul Jaleel August 16.

[3.] Help Iraqis to Forge a National Compact for Democratic Government– Developments

Shia Targeted on Holiday Pilgrimage:

- Sunni Arab insurgents attacked Shia pilgrims in the Karkh, Kadhimiyah and Bab al-Muadham areas of Baghdad August 20 as they commemorated the death of one of Shia Islam's holiest figures. The largest Sunni party in parliament, the Iraqi Islamic Party, denounced the Shia-led government for announcing the deaths of only Shia pilgrims. Prime Minister Maliki issued a statement condemning the violence, which he said had been carried out by Sunni insurgents and supporters of ousted president Saddam Hussein.

SCIRI Member Emphasizes Need to Dissolve Militias:

- After a meeting with the United Nations August 16, Council of Representatives (CoR) and Supreme Council for the Islamic Revolution in Iraq (SCIRI) member Sheikh Humam Hammoudi publicly asserted the importance of dissolving Iraq's militias as a way to mitigate Iraq's current security crisis. As an alternative, Hammoudi expressed his support for a proposal to form popular committees which would aim to dissolve local militia participation and whereby each area's citizens would participate in protecting their neighborhood.

Commission on Public Integrity Investigates Corruption:

- Iraq's Commission on Public Integrity (CPI) is investigating the misappropriation of $7.5 billion, including $4 billion at the Ministry of Defense, $150 million at the Ministry of Trade, and $50 million at the Ministry of Health. CPI has arrested former Minister of Electricity Ayham al-Samaraie and subpoenaed former Minister of Electricity Abdul Muhsin Shlash. CPI Director Judge Radhi al-Radhi claimed the CPI is being pressured by political entities and that he will be asking the CoR to revoke parliament member Misha'an al-Jaburi's immunity status.

[3.] Help Iraqis to Forge a National Compact for Democratic Government– Developments

Shia Parties Split Over Iran:

- Two Shia Muslim parties, the Islamic Allegiance Party (political wing of cleric Mahmoud Abdul Ridha al-Hassani) and the Fadhila bloc, accused Iran August 18 of instigating violence in Iraq and attempting to destabilize the country, exposing a growing rift within Iraq's largest sect. The recriminations were directed at two of the largest Shia parties in parliament, SCIRI and the Da'wa party. SCIRI was founded in Iran during Saddam Hussein's rule and retains strong ties to Iran. The pointed criticism of Iran followed a round of violent clashes this week in southern Iraq between rival Shia factions.

[6.] Help Iraq Strengthen the Rule of Law and Promote Civil Rights– Iraqi Judicial System

Most Successful Iraqi Police Recruiting Drive:

- More than 950 new Iraqi recruits began a ten-week Basic Police Officer training course August 21. The new recruits are the result of one of Multi-National Forces - West (MNF-W) most successful recruiting efforts this year. The monthly drive focused on identifying, screening and signing up local Iraqi national men from communities in and around the Euphrates River Valley. Many of the new recruits will receive their training at the Baghdad Police College, while others will attend the Jordanian International Police College.
- Upon completion of training, the recruits will return to their communities where they will serve as some of the more than 7,000 Iraqi police officers trained under the new Iraqi government.
- According to MNF-W Police Advisor Maj. Robert Chiaruttini, the success of recent recruiting drives is due in part to improvements that the Iraqi Ministry of Interior and al-Anbar officials have made to the system used to pay Iraqi police. "Getting these guys paid on time had been an ongoing issue in the past," Chiaruttini said. "I would not say the system is perfect now, but it's definitely improving and I think you can see the results of that in our recruiting numbers."

[7.] Increase International Support for Iraq – Developments

OCS/UNAMI Concludes Series of Seminars:

- The Office of Constitutional Support in the United Nations Assistance Mission for Iraq (OCS/UNAMI) has concluded its series of Iraqi multi-party dialogue seminars, which were held in Jordan, Austria, Spain, Italy and Turkey in cooperation with United Nations Development Programme (UNDP-Iraq) and the respective host countries. The seminars tackled federalism related issues including fiscal federalism and oil and gas, the judiciary, human rights, and accountability of government. A second generation of multi-party dialogues are now being planned in order to support the constitutional review process in Iraq. A separate press conference will soon be held on the results of the federalism seminars.

UK Planning to Cut Iraq Force in Half by Mid-2007:

- The United Kingdom intends to cut the number of British soldiers in Iraq in half by mid-2007, reducing the force to 3,000 - 4,000. The plan calls for the pullout to begin in early 2007 with the withdrawal of 1,000 of the 7,000-strong existing force, officials said August 22 in London. This is the most optimistic projection, they added, with the pace of withdrawal governed by the ability of Iraq's government to take control of regions currently under the control of British Forces.

Iraqi National Security Adviser Discusses Foreign Troop Withdrawal:

- In an interview with Dow Jones Newswires and Associated Press Television in Tokyo August 22, Iraqi National Security Adviser Mowaffak al-Rubaie said that Iraqi forces should be able to control the country’s internal security within two years, but will still need foreign assistance to patrol its borders. He was careful, though, to discuss a specific timetable for foreign troop withdrawal, saying that such a timeline would “play into the hands of the terrorists and insurgents.”

- IRMO Weekly Report, August 22

Slide 14:

- The chart shows average daily power production in megawatt hours (MWh). 120,000 MWh goal equates to 20 hours at 6000 MW average supplied load or 24 hours at 5000 MW average supply load. Currently supplies are not much improved over last year when judged by hours of power, but this is due in part to an influx of new appliances. This has dramatically altered demand and diluted the effect of increased generation capacity on actual results.
